LOWER COURT AGAIN REVERSED

Supreme Tribunal Holds Railroad Is Entitled to Another Trial Of Pugmire Case.

CLAIMED $3,500 DAMAGES.

Record Showed Error in Admission of Evidence-Woman Wants Value Of Stolen Property.

The judgment of the lower court has been reversed by the supreme court in an opinion handed down in the case of Christine Pugmire against the Oregon Short Line Railroad company and a new trial is granted. In the Second district court at Ogden plaintiff was given a judgment against defendant for $3,500 as damages for ersonal injuries received by her at Williams, Mont., on June 22, 1905, while employed on a commissary car for the company. She alleged that the car in which she was working was standing on a sidetrack when an engine bumped into it and she was in-

The new trial is granted because of error on the part of the lower court in admitting evidence which showed an injury to plaintiff's eye when no such injury was alleged in her complaint. It is held that the injury to the eye is one which would not naturally result from the negligence complained of and hence it nust be specifically alleged in the complaint in order to admit proof thereof. Chief Justice McCarty wrote the opinion of the court and it is concurred in by Justices Straup and

CLAIMS HOUSE WAS STOLEN. In a complaint which has been filed in the district court Annie Butcher alleges that a frame house, 12x28 feet in dimension, was stolen from her property by Polly Mathews, Samuel, Isaac, George and Joseph Butcher, the defendants in the suit. She alleges that some time early Sunday morning, June 9, while she was peacefully sleeping the defendants moved the house off onto property belonging to Polly Mathews and still retain possession of it. The house was moved on Sunday, she claims, to prevent her from getting out an injunction and putting a stop to it. She does not ask for the possession of the house, but simply asks for its value, $300. In a complaint which has been filed

LICHTENSTEINS PROTEST.

Will Make a Fight Against Ruling of Board of Equalization.

Board of Equalization.

It is very probable that M, and N. Lichtenstein will make a fight in court against the action of the county board of equalization in increasing the assessed valuation of their stock of jewelry from $25,000 to $65,000. They entered a protest against the lucrease and tried to show the members of the board that the value of their stock was only $25,000 or $40.000. They also claimed that they were assessed higher than other jewelry stores in the city which carried a larger stock than they. The members of the board informed the jewelers that the board's duties were over with for this year and the assessment could not now be changed, hence it is quite likely that the matter will be carried into court by the Lichtensteins.

INTERESTED IN UTAH COAL.

Bureau of Geological Survey Will Investigate Iron County Deposits.

The bureau of the geological survey will send a party under the direction of Prof. George B. Richardson to investigate the coal deposits in Iron county, Utah. A bulletin just issued by the department says relative to this:
"For a number of years high-grade bituminous and anthracite coals have been reported from that county. Previous to the construction of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake railway, there was little hope of commercial development of this field, but since this road has been built the field can be reached by a short branch line, and it seems probable that in the near future it will be developed. The surveying party will begin work on the anthracite field near Cedar City and carry it eastward into the bituminous field along the Colob platena as far as the spason will permit."

A similar party will visit the Big vestigate the coal deposits in Iron coun-

A similar party will visit the Big Horn basin in Wyoming, on its west-ern side, and a third party the southern side. The vicinity of Sheridan is also to be investigated.

RETAILERS HIT THE "DEAD BEATS"

Butchers and Grocers Have a Plan That Goes Into Operation Today.

The local retail butchers and grocers have finally hit upon a plan which is being put into operation today, for protection against uncollectable book accounts. In every case where the tradesman has not absolute confidence that a customer will settle regularly without being poked up to do it, he hands over a card to the prospective customer, on which the latter is requested to indicate in writing just when he will pay the bill, and at the same time give written references as to his commercial integrity. If the customer objects, he is politely informed that he may do his trading elsewhere; and when he does go elsewhere to purchase -on credit, it is only to repeat the ex-perience. Consequently he finds him-self up against it very hard, and cannot get his meats or groceries until he either puts down the cash, or signs one of those cards. In the latter case, the dealer "has him," so to speak, because f the obligation is not cancelled as per agreement, the purchaser can be sued eement, the purchaser can be sued obtaining goods under false pre-There are some forcible object tions being made against this new way of doing things today, but the grocers and butchers are holding their own, and say they must do something to protect themselves. A corresponding promptness in customers settling with them in turn is therefore necessary. "What is sauce for the anserine lady is sauce also for the anserine gentleman." LECTURE ON "GRAFT"

Judge Nielsen Talks of Swindling Methods of Modern Concerns.

By special request, Judge C. M. Nielsen delivered a lecture last evening at the Twenty-fourth ward meetinghouse on "graft." The speaker cited numerous instances where persons, especially those of foreign birth, had been swindled recently by fakirs and smooth-tongued men. One hardworking woman had been induced to put a $1,000 into an irresponsible building concern, and had lost every cent of her earnings. An aged couple had signed a paper for nursery stock, not knowing that they had signed an ironelad note, for no value received. Many persons had purchased real estate, only to find that the property was covered by mortages, etc. Judge Nielsen's remarks were very timely, in view of the attempts that are made almost daily by men and women who live without work to enrich themselves at the expense of the unwary and unsephisticated.

The case was taken up this morning at $:30 o'clock for the hearing of ar-guments on the part of the prosecu-tion and defense. Assastant County Atty, Lyon leaves for the coast, for a vacation, this evening, and this was one of the reasons for the early ses-sion of court.

"HE TRIED TO KILL ME." Before the arguments began, Mesich was placed on the stand for further questioning. He said, referring to the deceased: "He tried to kill me and I killed him." Further testimony was adduced to show that Mesich had gone to Ogden armed, and with the avowed intention of killing Obradovich, but he did not find the latter there. George Beleich testified that he was well acquainted with the defendant and that he had warned Mesich to keep out of the way of Obradovich because the latter had made threats against the defendant. Before the arguments began, Mesich

SENSATION AT BINGHAM TODAY

State and Defense Rest in Judge | Mining Companies Tear up Two Thousand Feet of City Water Pipe.

MASS MEETING IS CALLED.

New Red Wing, Utah, Development And Markham Gulch Milling Companies Among Those Involved.

The citizens of Bingham were treated to a genuine sensation yesterday when Supt, Archie Orem of the New Red Wing, Utah Development Markham Gulch Milling companies with the assistance of a force of men in his employ tore up about 2,000 feet of water pipe line laid in Markham gulch during the past week by the municipal authorities. The pipe was afterwards taken down the canyon and piled up on city property, after being replaced by that belonging to the company, and a notice posted to the effect that no trespassing was allowed. This action, it was learned today, was taken upon the direction of the attorneys of the corporations named.

This move is the result of the contention of the city council of the town of Bingham, which, with a single exed on the Socialist ticket at the last municipal election. It appears that the town of Bingham is the owner of a majority of the stock of what is known as the West Mountain Water company and the claim is set forth that the last named corporation owns all the water running down Markham Gulch canyon, notwithstanding that the several mining companies have developed a large flow of water in the developed a large flow of water in the tunnels run into their respective mines, and which the city authorities have nover attempted to claim or use heretofore. Inasmuch as the Markham Gulch company operates its mill with water from the canyon and principally from the Butler Liberal, New Red Wing and Utah Development mines the attempt of the Bingham city council to bottle up all the water in that region, naturally met with resistance. Without gaining the consent of the mining companies in water in that region, hatrary with resistance. Without gaining the consent of the mining companies involved the city officials employed a force of workmen to dig trenches and lay the pipe which Mr. Orem and his en afterwards removed.

MASS MEETING TONIGHT.

Just what the next move on the part Just what the next move on the part of the city authorities will be remains to be seen. However, the town of Bingham is filled with posters, of an inflammatory character, culfing upon the citizens of the camp to attend a mass meeting at the Central schoolhouse this evening for the purpose, as the poster says: "Of determining whether the people or the New Red Wing company is running the town of Bingham." ATTORNEYS ON THE GROUND.

Frank M. Orem and E. M. Mays, attorneys of mining companies, left for Bingham this afternoon to watch the interests of their clients. Mr. Orem torneys of mining companies, left for Bingham this afternoon to watch the interests of their clients. Mr. Orem said before leaving for the train that an agreement was reached with the Bingham council something over a month ago in regard to the water controversy, whereby the interests of both the town of Bingham and the companies he represents would have been conserved. The council later backed down on the proposition and is now claiming all the water, instead of a portion of it as heretofore. No doubt the matter will eventually find its way into the courts for final adjustment. The Bingham council, it is claimed, has done almost everything in its power to annoy the management of the Red Wing and associated companies which is believed to be due wholly to spite work on the part of some of its members and without any sense of justice.

DR. SILVER BACK FROM YALE.

With Sons of Eli He Partook of 82 Kinds of Clam.

Dr. E. V. Silver returned Saturday night from attendance at New Haven. Conn., on the reunion of his class, 1882, at Vale. Of the 101 members living, 80 were present at the class dinner held at one of the New Haven Bay resorts. and old college days were gone over again in reminiscence and song. There was a very claborate menu, including everything a shore dinner can offer. The class numeral was $2, and there were $2 varieties of clam condiments on the menu, to say nothing of lobsters, crabs, and 1,001 other things of an affiliated nature in connection therewith. Dr. Silver says he never had such a dinner before in all his life. He sampled the whole cretaceous menu, and still lives to tell the tale. He reports the enthusiasm of the returning graduates as something great; which made him thankful that he was a Yale man. His class alone raised $18,000 at the reunion, of which the greater part was given to the university.

Dr. Silver also attended the Columbia commencement, where he heard Gov. Hughes speak, and also heard President Roosevelt speak at the College of Physicians & Surgeous commencement in New York. and old college days were gone over WEDNESDAY, JUNE 30, 1847 At. 5:30 o'clock, a. m., the thermomeer stood at 46 degrees F. in the ploneer camp. As the sun rose higher the day became very warm. Several new case's of sickness were reported, "We resumed our journed at 8:30 a. m.," writes Wm. Clayton, "President Young, Kimball and others going on ahead again. We found the roads very good but sandy, filling the wagons with dust. At 11:30 having traveled eight miles, we arrived on the banks of the Green river and formed our encampment in a line under the shade of the cottonwood timber. Green river is very high, there being in the channel from 12 to 15 feet of water; the width of the stream is about eight rods with a very rapid current. Its banke were well lined with cottonwoods, but none large enough to make a canoe. The grass grows good and plentiful, but still not so much as has been represented. This river is 338½ miles for Fort John. After dinner the brethren commenced making two rafts, one for each division, and soon afterwards Samuel Brannan arrived in camp having come from the Bay of San Francisco on the Pacific coast to meet us, obtain counsel, etc. He is accompanied by a Mr. Smith and another young man. He left the bay of San Francisco expressly to meet us, on the 4th ef April last accompanied by only two persons; and, having at this early season of the year braved the dangers of the deep snows upon the mountains, and the wild and savagtribes of Indians that roam over these terrific regions, he arrived in safety at our camp, having also passed directly over the camping ground where about 40 or 50 California emigrants had perished, and been eaten up by their fellow sufferers, only a few days before. Their skulls, bones and carcasses lay strewed in every direction. He also met the hindmost of one of these unfortunate creatures making his way into the settlements.
